With the publication of Theory-Driven
Evaluations, Huey-Tsyh Chen has given us an

ambitious volume. . . .
Indeed, it is the
aspiration of this book
to provide a conceptual framework that
integrates the diverse
approaches and
paradigms of evaluation. For those of us accustomed to the
rhetoric of the
paradigm wars that
have been raging in recent years, it is
refreshing to find a text
that works so
assiduously at
reconciliation. . . .
There is much that is useful in Chen's analysis. He gives us a full and thoughtful
book that attempts no
less than the construction of a
conceptual framework
for all of program
evaluation. . . . It provides an impressive
compendium of source
material and
references spanning

not only evaluation,
but related work in economics and public policy (this alone is worth the price of the book). . . . Chen's
Theory-Driven
Evaluations provides a stimulating, even
heroic attempt to bring some conceptual
integration to a field
that has been too long
dominated by
methodological
paradigms and
procedural particulars.
--a prepublication
review for Evaluation
and Program Planning
"Generous use of
examples which are
well selected and
lucidly summarized." -- Contemporary
Sociology "Chen
introduces a new,
comprehensive
framework for program
evaluation that is designed to bridge the gap between method

and theory-oriented perspectives. . . . For program planners, decision makers, scholars, and students, this volume clarifies, illuminates and provides unique insights into the conception, construction and implementation of a wide range of programs. . . . The research examples used in the discussion draw upon various areas, such as education, welfare, health, criminal justice, job training [and] family construction to attract a wider audience." --Journal of Applied Rehabilitation Counseling Program evaluation has traditionally emphasized the application of social science research methods in evaluation activities. However, there is a growing awareness that program theory is vital for broadening the scope and enhancing the usefulness of program evaluation. In Theory-Driven Evaluations, Huey-Tsyh Chen introduces a new, comprehensive framework for program evaluation that is designed to bridge the gap between the method- and theory-oriented perspectives. He provides an intensive discussion of the nature and functions of program theory, approaches to constructing program theories, and the integration of program theory with evaluation processes. Specific types of theory-driven evaluations, as well as principles and guidelines for application are developed for meeting different policy purposes. Application of systematic strategies is illustrated by concrete examples from a variety of evaluation studies in different fields. The presentation of this new perspective directly addresses the needs and concerns in both the professional and applied areas of program evaluation. For program planners, decisionmakers, scholars and students, this volume will clarify, illuminate, and provide unique insights into the conception, construction, and implementation of a wide range of programs.

Educational design research blends scientific investigation with the systematic development and implementation of solutions to educational challenges. Empirical inquiry is conducted in real learning settings – not laboratories – to craft effective solutions to the complex challenges facing educational practitioners. At the same time, the research is carefully structured to produce theoretical understanding that can serve the work of others. Conducting Educational Design Research, 2nd Edition has been written to support graduate students as well as experienced researchers who are new to this approach. Part I describes the origins, outcomes, and generic approach. Part II discusses the core processes of the generic approach in detail. Part III recommends how to propose, report, and advance educational design research. In addition to expanded treatment of research goals and practicalities, more examples, and attention to design-based implementation research, this new edition features enhanced guidance. For each of the four core processes, this volume offers: assessment tools detailed, behind-the-scenes descriptions of actual project work examples of how specific theories have been used to enrich the work For decades, policies for educational research worldwide have swung back and forth between demanding rigor above all other concerns, and increasing emphasis on impact. These two qualities, rigor and impact, need not be mutually exclusive. This volume supports readers in grasping and realizing the potential of educational design research. It demonstrates how rigorous and relevant investigation can yield both theoretical understanding and solutions to urgent educational challenges. Adherence to Long-term Therapies World Health Organization First Published in 1998. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company.

Using original sources--such as newspaper articles, silent movies, letters, autobiographies, and interviews--Ilaria Serra depicts a large tapestry of images that accompanied mass Italian migration to the U.S. at the turn of the twentieth century. She chooses to translate the Italian concept of immaginario with the Latin imago that feliculously blends the double English translation of the word as "imagery" and "imaginary." Imago is a complex knot of collective representations of the immigrant subject, a mental production that finds concrete expression; palpable, yet real. The "imagined immigrant" walks alongside the real one in flesh and rags.

"The universe of possible worlds is constantly expanding and diversifying thanks to the incessant world-constructing activity of human minds and hands. Literary fiction is probably the most active experimental laboratory of the world-constructing enterprise."—from the author's Preface The standard contrast between fiction and reality, notes Lubomír Dolezel, obscures an array of problems that have beset philosophers and literary critics for centuries.

Commentators usually admit that fiction conveys some kind of truth—the truth of the story of Faust, for instance. They acknowledge that fiction usually bears some kind of relation to reality—for example, the London of Dickens. But both the status of the truth and the nature of the relationship have baffled, frustrated, or repelled a long line of thinkers. In Heterocosmica, Lubomír Dolezel offers nothing less than a complete theory of literary fiction based on the idea of possible worlds. Beginning with a discussion of the extant semantics and pragmatics of fictionality—by Leibniz, Russell, Frege, Searle,

Auerbach, and others—he relates them to literature, literary theory, and narratology. He also investigates theories of action, intention, and literary communication to develop a system of concepts that allows him to offer perceptive reinterpretations of a host of classical, modern, and postmodern fictional narratives—from Defoe through Dickens, Dostoevsky, Huysmans, Bely, and Kafka to Hemingway, Kundera, Rhys, Plenzdorf, and Coetzee. By careful attention to philosophical inquiry into possible worlds, especially Saul Kripke's and Jaakko Hintikka's, and through long familiarity with literary theory, Dolezel brings us an unprecedented examination of the notion of fictional worlds. The Economics of François Quesnay Psychology Press #1 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING BOOK. This book reflects the experience of the Rizzoli Orthopedic Institute during more than 100 years of treatment of musculoskeletal tumor and tumorlike lesions. It presents a wide range of lesions from a multidisciplinary perspective, highlighting pertinent clinical, radiological, and histological correlations. Treatment is briefly reported for each entity. In addition, the more recent biomolecular findings of use for diagnosis, prognosis, and treatment are carefully analyzed. The Rizzoli case archive spans more than a century, the first treated case dating back to 28 September 1900, and contains the original material - clinical charts, imaging, paraffin blocks, and histological slides - of more than 40,000 cases, including about 29,000 bone lesions and 11,000 soft tissue lesions. This book reports the most relevant entities and reflects the improvements in knowledge of musculoskeletal tumors as presented during the yearly international course held at the Rizzoli Institute.

This book explores an approach to school improvement that merges the traditions of educational effectiveness research and school improvement efforts. It displays how the dynamic model, which is theoretical and empirically validated, can be used in both traditions. Each chapter integrates evidence from international and national studies, showing how the knowledge-base of educational effectiveness research can be used for improvement purposes. In a clear and practicable manner it outlines: Foundations of the improvement approach Research projects investigating the impact of the dynamic approach Guidelines and practical solutions to translating the approach into action Further developments for school improvement Exploring the crucial factors in the establishment of this environment, the authors outline a dynamic framework that helps schools collect data, through self-evaluation mechanisms, taking decisions about priorities for improvement, and developing appropriate policies and action plans. This approach emphasises educational targets and provides means to achieve them that are flexible enough to fit in with the circumstances of the individual school. The book draws upon research across the world, conducted especially in the United States, Europe, and Australasia, expertly showcasing how the dynamic approach can be used in a wide variety of educational settings A key book for all professionals working in education; academics, researchers, policy-makers, school advisors and practitioners will find it invaluable. Not only it is a must for graduate students, university libraries, and individual academics but also for school management teams, school support agencies and officials in educational policy. The Colonial Legacy in Somalia Maggioli Editore Commissioned by The Civil Rights Project at Harvard, this text examines racial inequity in special education, with an emphasis on the experiences of African American children. Eleven contributions from educators and researchers discuss issues such as the overrepresentation of minority children in special education, racial disparities in funding, and the implications of the Corey H. lawsuit to desegregate students with disabilities in Chicago. La pandemia da COVID-19 ha profondamente scosso le strutture fondamentali della società mondiale. Ciò che pacificamente potevano essere considerati pilastri inamovibili dello sviluppo della civiltà umana, della mankind, sono messi in dubbio: la fiducia nello sviluppo ininterrotto, la fede incondizionata nelle strutture finanziarie come colonne portanti di questo, l'assenza di dubbio nelle capacità umane nel controllare automazione e digitalizzazione. Il mondo è scosso e, come poche volte nella Storia umana, non più in grado di fare previsioni logiche e veritiere. Molte difatti le stime di ripresa che non convergono verso un ideale nuovo orizzonte per la società umana. Perché oltre a volgere lo sguardo al di là dei presenti limiti, coloro chiamati a gestire l'emergenza attuale devono lottare con la quotidiana incertezza, con i problemi dell'immediato, con i dubbi relativi all'attuazione di protocolli gestionali mai né prospettati né sperimentati. Un mondo che sta evolvendo allora, nel bene e purtroppo ancora nel male, nel quale molti sono coloro chiamati ad essere garanti di una variabilità della performance che deve essere tenuta entro limiti accettabili nel mare scosso dalla pandemia globale. A questi ci rivolgiamo, perché ci permettano di far tesoro delle loro esperienze, perché ci facciano conoscere il loro modo di essere resilienti, perché la società ha bisogno di sapere che ci sono uomini e donne in grado di salvarci attraverso il lavoro, l'abnegazione, il sacrificio quotidiano. Ci rivolgiamo agli Eroi nascosti, a coloro che senza l'enfasi di una socialità oramai alla deriva compiono quei piccoli e grandi gesti quotidiani senza i quali non saremo qui a sperare in un futuro migliore. Ci proponiamo allora di raccogliere il loro pensiero, che come testimonianza storica e sociale, faccia comprendere quello che si è fatto e si dovrà da fare, perché un nuovo mondo sia possibile. Per coloro che vogliono partecipare alla costruzione di un mondo nuovo, qui siamo per raccogliere le loro idee, esperienze e considerazioni.

La sindrome del burnout deriva il proprio nome dall'espressione inglese "to burn out", ovvero "bruciarsi, esaurirsi, surriscaldarsi". In particolare, l'attenzione è incentrata sul ruolo che la crisi pandemica da Covid-19 sta assumendo nell'aggravamento e nell'incremento dei casi di burnout. Il burnout si caratterizza come uno stato di esaurimento sul piano fisico, mentale ed emotivo e colpisce prevalentemente le Helping Profession, cioè tutte le professioni che hanno l'obiettivo di soccorrere persone che vivono uno stato di disagio o di malessere. Soggetti alla sindrome, in modo più o meno grave, dunque possono essere medici, infermieri, psicologi, assistenti sociali, educatori, volontari, ecc. Si analizza il particolare e più intenso burnout dovuto all'improvvisa emergenza Covid-19 analizzando dati di studi e ricerche (da fonti ufficiali es. ospedali, atenei, articoli scientifici) per delineare quali sostanziali differenze riveste questo tipo di stress Covid-correlato rispetto al normale burnout. Vengono esaminati e confrontati i principali modelli di studio del burnout e ne viene studiata l'applicazione al burnout da Covid-19 del personale sanitario. Si propongono strategie e tecniche innovative nell'approccio a tale nuova tipologia di burnout

Relationships are at the heart of our lives; at home with our families, with our friends, in schools and colleges, with colleagues at the workplace and in our diverse communities. The quality of these relationships determines our individual well-being, how well we learn, develop and function, our sense of connectedness with others and the health so society. This unique volume brings together authorities from across the world to write about how relationships might be enhanced in all these different areas of our lives. It also explores how to address the challenges involved in establishing and maintaining positive relationships. This evidence-based book, primarily grounded in the science of positive psychology, is valuable for academics, especially psychologists and professionals, working in the field of well-being.

Translation of dalla parole delle bambine. iGen Taylor & Francis As seen in Time, USA TODAY, The Atlantic, The Wall Street Journal, and on CBS This Morning, BBC, PBS, CNN, and NPR, iGen is crucial reading to understand how the children, teens, and young adults born in the mid-1990s and later are vastly different from their Millennial predecessors, and from any other generation. With generational divides wider than ever, parents, educators, and employers have an urgent need to understand today's rising generation of teens and young adults. Born in the mid-1990s up to the mid-2000s, iGen is the first generation to spend their entire adolescence in the age of the smartphone. With social media and texting replacing other activities, iGen spends less time with their friends in person—perhaps contributing to their unprecedented levels of anxiety, depression, and loneliness. But technology is not the only thing that makes iGen distinct from every generation before them; they are also different in how they spend their time, how they behave, and in their attitudes toward religion, sexuality, and politics. They socialize in completely new ways, reject once sacred social taboos, and want different things from their lives and careers. More than previous generations, they are obsessed with safety, focused on tolerance, and have no patience for inequality. With the first members of iGen just graduating from college, we all need to understand them:

friends and family need to look out for them; businesses must figure out how to recruit them and sell to them; colleges and universities must know how to educate and guide them. And members of iGen also need to understand themselves as they communicate with their elders and explain their views to their older peers. Because where iGen goes, so goes our nation—and the world.
