 The Republic of Lebanon is a small country (10,452km² in area) with 3.7 million inhabitants) within the Middle East region with its capital being Beirut. There are Roman baths in Beirut, as well as the Cardio Maximus - to name a few. Byblos is also rich in Crusader ruins and for a small fee you can view them (they are located near the bazaar). There are a lot of ancient mosques, synagogues, and churches in Lebanon. Also be sure to visit the Place des Martyrs (Martyrs' Square) in Beirut, a statue erected in memory of the Lebanese nationalists who were hanged by the Ottomans for revolting during the first World War. Lebanon is a country rich in natural scenery from beautiful beaches to mountains and valleys. Lebanese people take pride that Lebanon is one of the few countries that gives you the opportunity to go skiing in the morning and going to the beach in the afternoon. Wink Travel Guides introduce you to the best world travel destinations, in a clear and concise way, illustrated by photos.

Lebanon is a revelation for travellers and visitors, a place known mostly for human tragedy. Now at last a fledgling peace has endured for a few years. Today Lebanon is welcoming back adventurers, explorers, trekkers and curious visitors. European colonials, before gaining an uneasy independence. The stunning archaeological remains bear witness to this long and colourful history. The history, cultural attractions and the mix of people are fascinating. For adventure seekers, the mountains and the long-distance cross-country trail offer superb scenery and trekking. Both Syria and Lebanon still labour under their media stereotypes as places of religious fanaticism, terrorism and intractable conflict. True, the region has had more than its fair share of wars, atrocities and suffering, and the Arab-Israeli conflict continues to cast its tragic shadow. Indeed, this is a conflict which goes right back to the dawn of history, resonating through the Old Testament stories of the origins of the Israelites, and the Exodus, when Moses led his people from exile in Egypt back to the Promised Land. But these same twists of religion, history and geography are also what makes this such a fascinating region to visit. Forget your preconceptions and go see for yourself; the day-to-day reality on the ground is a world away from the media stereotypes. Rather, you will find yourself stepping into a wonderful world of breathtakingly beautiful and well preserved historic monuments, stunning scenery, delicious food and diverse peoples.
