Which is the true way of salvation? Is it from Christ* direct to the sinner, or is it through priests and sacraments and church? The answer is of vital importance, for the eternal destiny of souls is at stake. This book attempts to examine the wide field of questions in dispute. It is not written in any spirit of disputation for disputation's sake, or just to prove someone else is wrong, but that the truth as revealed in the Holy Scriptures, the Word of God, may be clearly seen. "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32).

While Christians generally acknowledge that the Bible is God's Word, many of us lack robust confidence in the reality of its trustworthiness. We may not be sure if we really believe what we read. But the more we understand how Scripture came to be, the more we discover its power and truth. Historian Susan Lim unpacks how the history of the Bible bolsters our faith and anchors us through the changing tides of time. The story of Scripture, while messy and complicated at times, is also the story of how God shepherded his people throughout the centuries in and through these writings. Lim explains how Christians came to accept certain documents as inspired and not others, and how the books we now call the Bible came to be assembled and canonized as authoritative. The same Spirit of God who oversaw the writing of Scripture continues to be at work actively in us in our receiving and reading of it, to grow us in faith and maturity. Those of us who confess that Jesus is Lord can also confess with confidence that Scripture is God's Word. As the church through the ages has received and passed down the sacred Scriptures, so too can we receive for ourselves the living Word that God still speaks through today.

This book is written to help members of the body of Christ see the need for self-examination. Do we identify with Christ's words, actions, and deeds? What is the world really seeing as they look at us? This book invites and reminds us to take a serious scriptural look our three C's . The Bible states in 1 Corinthians 3:2 that we are "living epistles, known and read of all men." Therefore, we should know that others are reading and observing us. Our conversation, conduct and character are always being monitored by those who are seeking to observe the tangible difference between believers and the world. Scripture also states that we are "ambassadors for Christ" (2 Cor. 5:20), representatives of His uprightness, integrity and faithfulness. We can be a good representative or a bad representative, but we must always be aware that someone is watching and reading our actions.

'Our Day: In the Light of Prophecy' by William Ambrose Spicer is a Christian philosophy book that explores the role of divine prophecy in illuminating the meaning and significance of contemporary events. As a Seventh-day Adventist minister and president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Spicer brings a unique perspective to the analysis of historical and prophetic trends. Drawing on the Bible, Spicer demonstrates the continuing relevance of scripture as a guiding light for contemporary society. Through careful analysis of past events and their relationship to prophetic utterances, Spicer elucidates the lessons that can be gleaned from the biblical text.

The publication of the King James version of the Bible, translated between 1603 and 1611, coincided with an extraordinary flowering of English literature and is universally acknowledged as the greatest influence on English-language literature in history. Now, world-class literary writers introduce the book of the King James Bible in a series of beautifully designed, small-format volumes. The introducers' passionate, provocative, and personal engagements with the spirituality and the language of the text make the Bible come alive as a stunning work of literature and remind us of its overwhelming contemporary relevance.

parables and gives you understanding on how to

Since his retirement from consulting works, he has devoted his life to make the Word of God better known. Hours with the Bible Made For Success Publishing Excerpt from Man and the Bible in the Light of Reason John Fiske, in his preface to "The Destiny of Man" says: "In dealing with the unknown, it is well to take one's start a long way within the limits of the known." This is right. In every unsolved problem there is always an unknown something which we seek to know; and, in order to find this out, we must begin with principles and things we know, and, step by step, reach a conclusion legitimately drawn from the known premises. This method should always be followed in seeking truth in any field of thought, that is, if we would be clear. In this treatise this is our method; and we trust, as we advance, light, from every quarter, may pour in upon us in such fullness of splendor as to leave little, if any, doubt upon the main points, at least, of the great problems we have in hand. In our Introduction we must deal with some preliminaries which are of importance, as they are the starting points in our course. Let the reader mark these carefully.
