This quick reference guide describes U.S. Army organizations, planning, and operations. Unified action partners (UAPs) are those military forces, of the private sector with whom U.S. Army forces plan, coordinate, synchronize, and integrate during the conduct of operations (Army Doctrine Reference Publication 3-0, Unified Land Operations). UAPs include joint forces (activities in which elements of two or more U.S. military departments participate), multinational forces, and U.S. Government (USG) agencies and departments. The Iraq and Afghanistan wars highlight the necessity for collaboration, cooperation, and synchronization among USG, NGOs, and private sector agencies to focus the elements of national power in achieving national strategic objectives. Our experience in these conflicts accentuates the importance of foreign governments, agencies, and militaries participating, in concert with the United States, to achieve common objectives. Meeting the challenges of complex environments, infused with fragile or failing nation states, non-state actors, pandemics, natural disasters, and limited resources, requires the concerted effort of all instruments of U.S. national power plus foreign governmental agencies, military forces, and civilian organizations.

Pakistan has implemented some reforms, including improvements in tax administration, removal of some tax exemptions, and the introduction of an interest rate corridor. The macroeconomic policies are overly expansionary and fundamental reforms to resolve the economy's structural problems are not being tackled well. There is broad concurrence between the authorities and the mission on policy priorities, namely, tighter fiscal policy, a less accommodative monetary policy stance, and structural reforms. The government recognizes that the economy has performed well below its potential and requires an annual average rate of 7 percent to absorb youth labor growth.

The scope of contemporary higher education is wide, and concerns about the performance of higher education systems are widespread. The number of young people with a higher education qualification is expected to surpass 300 million in OECD and G20 countries by 2030. Higher education systems are faced with challenges that include expanding access, containing costs, and ensuring the quality and relevance of provision. The project on benchmarking higher education system performance provides a comprehensive and empirically rich review of the higher education landscape across OECD countries, taking stock of how well they are performing in meeting their education, research and engagement responsibilities.

Even though local governments raise revenues under authority granted by state government, there are many differences in the taxes, fees, and charges that localities impose. Each year the University of Virginia's Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service conducts a comprehensive survey on the tax rates of all cities, counties and incorporated towns in Virginia and provides the results in its annual book, Virginia Local Tax Rates. This publication allows you to compare local government tax policies across Virginia and provides detailed background information on local taxes rates. All cities and counties participated in the latest 2018 survey, as did 133 of the 190 incorporated towns. The survey's results, plus additional information from other sources, provide a comprehensive picture of local tax policies in the state. The text includes descriptions of authorizing state statutes, the various tax categories, and statewide statistics including ranges and averages. Anyone involved with local governments in Virginia, either as a taxpayer, elected official, administrator, business leader, or researcher, will find this an indispensable resource.
