 This sweeping, intelligent and immersive biographical graphic novel from award-winning creators, joins legendary scientist Charles Darwin as a young man, as he embarks on his voyage on the H.M.S. Beagle. It is the year 1831. A gifted but distracted young man named Charles Darwin has been offered a place aboard the H.M.S. Beagle, in a chain of events that will change both his life and the course of modern science. Join him on an epic journey of thrilling discovery as he explores remote corners of the natural world and pieces together the very beginnings of his revolutionary theory of evolution.

Book Excerpt: ...n ill-greased pulley, and ended by degenerating into a terrible spasm of coughing. The fire basket now clearly lit up his large head, with its scanty white hair and flat, livid face, spotted with bluish patches. He was short, with an enormous neck, projecting calves and heels, and long arms, with massive hands falling to his knees. For the rest, like his horse, which stood immovable, without suffering from the wind, he seemed to be made of stone; he had no appearance of feeling either the cold or the gusts that whistled at his ears. When he coughed his throat was torn by a deep rasping; he spat at the foot of the basket and the earth was blackened. Étienne looked at him and at the ground which he had thus stained. "Have you been working long at the mine?" Bonnemort flung open both arms. "Long? I should think so. I was not eight when I went down into the Voreux and I am now fifty-eight. Reckon that up! I have been everything down there; at first trammer, then putter, when I h...

Un parcours jalonné de prix de poésies et de nouvelles pour notre auteur Brigitte Lascombe qui présente ici son premier roman primé également. Voici L'Aigo Boulido (la soupe à l'ail) qui relate la vie d'une famille provençale du XIXe siècle entre Ollioules et Le Beausset. Joies et peines se succèdent. Coutumes anciennes et faits historiques s'entremêlent. Mais une généreuse louche d'amour, une lchette de courage, un zeste de foi et quelques brins de fantaisie viennent, au dernier moment, napper le bouillon afin de surmonter toutes les épreuves (notamment le gel des oliviers qui fit ravage en 1820, la sécheresse de 1825 ou le choléra de 1850). Alors, dans cet endroit magique au cœur de la Provence, lorsque le soleil monte au zénith pour chauffer à blanc les pierrailles, le ciel bleuté se change en plomb, puis l'alchimie céleste poudre d'or la garrigue...

Les Sentiers d'Emilie, ce sont 25 itinéraires pédestres faciles, accessibles à toutes et à tous, permettant de découvrir un territoire au meilleur rythme qui soit : celui de vos pas - étant entendu que les jeunes enfants peuvent les parcourir sans crainte. Dans la Vienne, le plus court de ces parcours ne dépasse pas une heure de marche (Usson et les jardins de la Clouère) quand le plus long atteint trois heures (Ronde au sud d'Avanies). L'un de ces itinéraires est même double : Mirebeau et les faluns d'Amberre, soit 2h15 auxquelles peuvent s'ajouter 2h40 ! Emilie propose ainsi de découvrir les richesses médiévales et forestières du département - sans oublier les rivières - passant du bois Buttereau, à Thuré, à celui des Touches, à Civray; allait des rives du Clain, à Ligugé, à celles de la Vonne, à Sanxay; rendant visite à Mélusine, à Lusignan, musardant sur le chemin des Amoureux, à Château-Larcher, recherchant même des louis en forêt de Mareuil...

 Shortlisted for the 2016 Giller Prize Selected for Indies Introduce Summer/Fall 2016 Catherine Leroux's first novel, translated into English brilliantly by Lazer Lederhendler, ties together stories about siblings joined in surprising ways. A woman learns that she absorbed her twin sister's body in the womb and that she has two sets of DNA; a girl in the deep South pushes her sister out of the way of a speeding train, losing her legs; and a political couple learn that they are non-identical twins separated at birth. The Party Wall establishes Leroux as one of North America's most intelligent and innovative young authors. Catherine Leroux was born in 1979 in Montreal, Quebec, where she continues to live and write.

 William is a dissolute book-forgery. A talented writer in his own right he would rather scribble poems anonymously for an asian friend (who is becoming increasingly successful as a result), and create forgeries of Jane Austen first editions to sell to gullible collectors. He's not all bad. The money from the forgeries goes straight to homeless hostel and William's crimes don't really hurt anyone. And there are reasons William hasn't amounted to more. He did something he was ashamed of when he was a student, he drinks far too much and he can't commit to any relationships. Oh and he sees demons. Shadowy figures at the shoulder of everyone around him (except the woman who runs the hostel, she remains untouched), waiting for a moment's weakness. Or is just that William can see the suffering of the world? And then an extraordinary woman, who may just be able to save him from the world's suffering, walks into his life. This is William's own story. But who can believe a master forger?

Albert wants a quiet place to read...but his friends just want to play! Can they figure out how to have fun together? Albert's home is very loud--and all he wants to do is read! He escapes outside for some peace, and thinks he's found it at last. But, one by one, his friends boisterously infiltrate his space until Albert just can't take it anymore...and snaps! How will his friends react? While they leave him alone at first, they slowly return...with books in hand. This beautifully illustrated story models flexible, empathic play, and articulates a range of ways a group can have fun together. A useful tool for any classroom or neighborhood!

 Educated in the humanities and trained in psychiatry, Jean Starobinski is a central figure in the Geneva School of criticism. For twenty-five years his work has had considerable influence on postmodern European critics (notably Derrida), scholars of French literature, and intellectual historians. Montaigne in Motion is his subtly conceived and elegantly written study of the Essais of Montaigne, whose deceptively plainspoken meditations have entranced readers and stimulated philosophers since their first publication in 1580 and 1595. Starobinski here offers a decidedly postmodern reading of Montaigne. In chapters dealing with the themes of public and private life, friendship, death, the body, and love, Starobinski interprets Montaigne's writings as a constant "working through" that leads Montaigne from a situation of unreasoned dependence to a revolt affirming his independence and self-sufficiency, and finally toward an acceptance and mastery of necessary relations. Placing this ternary movement at the very heart of the Montaignian enterprise, Starobinski reveals much that will remind us that Montaigne's thought is as apropos to our time as it was to his own.

 Two women. Two families. Two lifetimes' worth of secrets. In the wake of her husband's sudden death, Cassie Costas finds her relationship with her teenage stepdaughter unravelling. After their move to historic Tarpon Springs, Florida, Savannah hates her new town, her school and most of all her stepmum, whom she blames for her father's death. Cassie has enough to contend with as she searches for answers about the man she shared a life with, including why all their savings have disappeared. When Savannah's rebellion culminates in an act that leaves single mother Amber Blair and her sixteen-year-old son homeless, Cassie empathises with the woman's predicament and invites the strangers to move in. As their lives intertwine, Cassie realises that Amber is hiding something. She's evasive about her past, but the fear in her eyes tells a darker story. Cassie wonders what the woman living under her roof is running from...and what will happen if it finally catches up to her.

The analysis of UNESCO's audio-visual archives for their digitization has brought to light a forgotten album of 38 contact sheets and accompanying texts by Magnum photographer, David "Chim" Seymour - a reportage made in 1950 for UNESCO on the fight against illiteracy in Italy's southern region of Calabria. A number of his photographs appeared in the March 1952 issue of UNESCO Courier in an article written by Carlo Levi, who had gained worldwide fame with his novel Christ Stopped at Eboli (1945). L'analyse des archives audio-visuelles de l'UNESCO en vue de leur numérisation a permis de découvrir un album oublié comprenant 38 planches-contact et des textes d'accompagnement du photographe de Magnum David « Chim » Seymour - un reportage réalisé en 1950 pour l'UNESCO sur la bataille contre l'analphabétisme en Calabre, une région du sud de l'Italie. Un certain nombre de ses photographies ont été publiées dans le numéro de mars 1952 du Courier de l'UNESCO avec un article de Carlo Levi, dont le roman Le Christ s'est arrêté à Eboli (1945) lui avait valu une renommée internationale

Languedoc-Roussillon : cette pointe à l'extrême sud de la France entre les Cévennes méridionales et les Pyrénées orientales, dans le triangle formé par les villes de Montpellier, Carcassonne et Perpignan, possède un charme bien particulier. Un paysage d'une riche diversité, une région toute en contrastes : du Pic du Canigou, l'un des premiers sommets du monde à avoir été gravi, jusqu'à la Côte Vermeille, magnifiques et radieux contreforts des Pyrénées plongeant dans la Méditerranée. Daniel Anker, l'un des plus célèbres auteurs d'ouvrages sur la montagne et journaliste alpin de Suisse, décrit dans ce guide de randonnées avec Jacques Maubé, qui connaît très bien cette région, 50 randonnées douces à « pimentées ». Genêts et pins, étroits chemins muletiers et larges chaussées, la terre rouge au Lac du Salagou et la voûte bleue du ciel audessus du paradis granitique du Caroux : tout est là pour les randonneurs, qu'ils préfèrent se promener tranquillement sur la plage ou se lancer à l'assaut de sommets. Vous déboucherez sur le Pic Saint-Loup un « vin de sommet », vous plongerez dans les gorges de Minerve et de Carança, vous admirerez les vignobles de Saint-Chinian et des Corbières, vous ferez un pèlerinage jusqu'aux fiers châteaux des Cathares et aux cathédrales, vous flânerez le long du Canal du Midi et de la Côte Vermeille, vous vous baignerez dans les eaux glacées des lacs de montagne des Pyrénées orientales et dans celles, salées de l'Étang du Doule en bordure de la Méditerranée : le Languedoc et le Roussillon sont une source inépuisable de trésors pour les amateurs de randonnée. Les descriptions précises des randonnées sont illustrées par de nombreuses et belles photos en couleurs, complétées par des cartes sur lesquelles figure le tracé des itinéraires et accompagnées de profils d'altitude très informatifs. S'ajoutent à cela de nombreux conseils concernant les sites ou les curiosités à visiter ainsi que les possibilités de combinaison de randonnées.

"This—THIS—is the cutting edge of science fiction." —Richard K. Morgan, author of Altered Carbon How do you stage a mutiny when you're only awake one day in a million? How do you conspire when your tiny handful of potential allies changes with each job shift? How do you engage an enemy that never sleeps, that sees through your eyes and hears through your ears, and relentlessly, honestly, only wants what's best for you? Trapped aboard the starship Eriophora, Sunday Ahzmundin is about to discover the components of any successful revolution: conspiracy, code—and unavoidable casualties. Note from the publisher: The red letters in the print edition (highlighted letters in the e-book) indicate special bonus content.

The Laughing People, translated from the award-winning Le peuple rieur, conveys the richness and resilience of the Innu while reminding us of the forces - old and new - that threaten their community. This memoir and tribute tells the tale of the very long journey of a very small nation, recounting both its joie de vivre and its crosses borne. Readers follow Serge Bouchard, a young anthropologist in the 1970s, as he arrives in Ekuanitshit (Mingan, Quebec) and comes to know its residents. His observations and questions document a community weathering yet another season of change - skidoos replace dogsleds and forests are bulldozed for prefabricated housing - while nonetheless defying external pressures to assimilate or disappear altogether. Returning to these texts fifty years later, Bouchard moves beyond platitudes of strength and dives into wide-scale injustices to present the sacrifices and beauty of the Innu people on individual terms. Whether recounting the impact of the residential school system on Georges Mestokosho, the wave of Innu activism inspired by An Antane Kapeshe, or the uncelebrated work of women like Nishapet Enim, The Laughing People presents an opportunity for readers to be part of the preservation and proliferation of these important stories.

Now an original series starring Katherine Langford on Netflix! The Lady of the Lake is the true hero in this cinematic twist on the tale of King Arthur created by Thomas Wheeler and legendary artist, producer, and director Frank Miller (300, Batman: The Dark Knight Returns, Sin City). Featuring 8 full-color and 30 black-and-white pieces of original artwork by Frank Miller. Whosoever wields the Sword of Power shall be the one true King. But what if the Sword has chosen a Queen? Nimue grew up an outcast. Her connection to dark magic made her something to be feared in her Druid village, and that made her desperate to leave... That is, until her entire village is slaughtered by Red Paladins, and Nimue's fate is forever altered. Charged by her dying mother to reunite an ancient sword with a legendary sorcerer, Nimue is now her people's only hope. Her mission leaves little room for revenge, but the growing power within her can think of little else. Nimue teams up with a charming mercenary named Arthur and refugee Fey Folk from across England. She wields a sword meant for the one true king, battling paladins and the armies of a corrupt king. She struggles to unite her people, avenge her family, and discover the truth about her destiny. But perhaps the one thing that can change Destiny itself is found at the edge of a blade.
